MAHOMMED EMTR PACHA, the Turkish Minister of Police, died recently at the advanced age of one hundred and line years. He started in the service as a private jamesary, and gradually worked his way up to a succession of provincial governorships, and finally to the post vacated by his death.

Some time ago tuey started a female seminary in Salt Lake city. It flourished well, but in the height of its prosperity the Mormon principal eloped with and "married" the whole school! For the benefit of our fair readers, we would state that this is a mere rumor, and later advices from Utah have not confirmed it.

The Schenectady (N. Y.) Star says: "Tons of butter are passing down on the railroads. Some of it has been held for a long time, and, after be ing re-worked, is sent to market. There being no hope of further advance or safety in longer keeping, it must be sold to avoid losses." This, we suppose, is the "strong" butter frequently sold by our Cats are animals of which the supply generally exceeds the demand. It is not so, however, just at present at Luzerne, in Switzerland, where the are quoted as "scarce," and are said to be selling at a high price in consequence of a malady that has greatly thinned their numbers. The head of the animal, when attacked, swell rapidly, it refuses all nourishment, and soon dies.

The remark holds good not as to coffee alone; for it is equally applicable to most of the prepared articles offered in such perfection, alleged cheapness and abundance.

The grasshopper invasion of Kansas and Western Missouri, last fall, will be remembered. The St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald now says the farmers in that city are living in dread of a return, or rather a recurrence, of the invasion. They are dispirited dare not trade, incur any expense, or act upon the idea that they are this fall to reap the reward of their spring labors. This fear actually has a very depressing influence upon business. In the Supreme Court, Circuit, Part 2, New York, in the case of WM. A. SANBORNE US. SILAS C. HERmine et al., a verdict was rendered for the defendant. The action was brought by the plaintiff to recover $24,300, which had been stolen from a safe purchased by him from the defendant's agent at Chicago, under representations that it was burglar proof. The safe was broken into by sledging the spindle of the knob on the outside of the chest.

Secretary SEWARD has issued a circular letter to the Consular agents and Ministers of the United States stationed at ports likely to be visited by General SEERMAN'S expedition to the Holy Land, commending the General and his party to their consideration, and intimating that any attention paid to him by foreign States will be gratefully appreciated by the Government. The Secretary of the Navy has given orders to supply the Quaker Oily-tue vessel in which the party sails-with artillery and flags to be used in saluting.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican who has been on a visit to some newly discovered lead mines in Missouri, writes that lead has been found in large and paying quantities in various localities, and as a consequence the mineral excitement is very high. The richness of the country in mineral wealth cannot fail to be developed in a short time. The rough and rocky ridges along the water courses appear to be full of lead, and it only requires capital and labor to find it in paying

An interesting salvage case has been argued before the United States District Court of Brooklyn, Eastern District, in which the 48d Regiment (col ored infantry) claim two-thinds of the value of the steamer Merrimac, for having kept her affoat by constant bailing and excessive labor while on board of her as passengers from New Orleans to New York in 1865. The vessel sprung a leak, it appears, when about two hundred and ten miles from the mouth of the Mississippi, and required all the exertions of the crew, working by reliefs under the charge of their officers, to save her. The libellants claim that the case is unusual and does not come under the law dicallowing salvage to passengers. The Court has reserved its de-

The New York Herald's special correspondence from Matamoras, Mexico, gives further news from the whole city. We hope they will continue the vicinity of Queretaro to the 22d ult. No doubt at present exists that the recent engagement resulted in an Imperial defeat. The fighting was pery stubborn, and the losses are admitted by Es. street to the Roper Hospital. There is but one COBEDO to be very heavy on both sides. The Imperial chiefs had issued a proclamation offering three squares that would have to be recessed, $10 to any soldier who would join them with his arms, and $5 for any one who would join them without his arms. It is probably intended as a Sait for deserters from the Liberals. The commander of Matamoras had again requested a loan of the merchants of that city, the amount raised being $30,000. The worst of our inconveniences in railroad travel are insignificant compared with what is endured in the East Indies, if the following from an Indian journal is to be relied on : "Last year no less than seven or eight corpses, if we remember rightly, were taken from the carriages of this line (Calcutta and Delhi) alone—victims to a barbarous system of over-packing. CITY IMPROVEMENTS.

Why it is that our for ... thers had such a prelilection for narrow streets, we have never been able to ascertain. But so it is, and not here only. On the contrary, we find views more contracted, and streets more strait, the further east we trace our steps, and the deeper down we look into the vista of the ages. In Syria, Turkey, Greece, and Italy, we find the beau ideal f tall houses and narrow thoroughfares. In truth they scarcely merit that name, for they were almost exclusively made for the use of the pedestrian, and afforded ample room and verge enough for the "hampered" lonkey. Those ancient burghers doubtless vere good men and true, and very well in their way, but they knew nothing of business. They had no street cars, express wagons, omnibuses. hacks or drays. In fact, we do not believe they had so much even as a "one-horse shay." The consequence of this old fogyism, this highly reprehensible want of foresight, is that nearly every city in Christendom has been compelled, since the opening of the present century, to the no small annoyance of tax-payers, to renovate and reconstruct on an expensive scale. In Paris, as is well known, this work is continually progressing. M. HAUSSMAN'S name will descend to the latest generations as the great concelast of the present; earning odium only for what he destroys, and no credit for what he is constructing. In New York also, and other of the older and larger cities of the

Charleston, our venerable old city, like her sisters, has her narrow streets. Ours are not generally very crooked. They were not proected upon cow-paths, as the late EDWARD EVERETT said was the origin of the streets of Boston: and as has been said also of Pearl street in New York. Improvements have been necessary, and were entered upon, from time to time, as permisson was obtained from the Legislature. But it was not until a general Act was passed for this purpose, appointing "a Board of Commissioners, with power and authority to declare in what cases the streets, lanes, and alleys of the ity shall be widened; and to provide for carrying info execution the objects of the said Board; and for other purposes therein mentioned. This Act provides for nine Commissioners, to be appointed by the Legislature, whose appro val and sanction was necessary before City Council could take any steps in carrying out he other provisions of this Act. Malin-

Section VIII of this Act (of 1817) says: And, whereas, narrow and confined streets, lanes and alleys, are disadvantageous to every city, exposing buildings so situated to great danger from fire, and the inhabitants thereof by close and confined air, to malignant disases: Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that from and immediately after the passing of this Act, no street, lane, alley, or court shall be opened, laid out, extended or established within any part of the City of Charleston less than sixty feet, and until the same shall be previously approved by the Commissioners of the Streets of said city.

There has been no opportunity in Charleston during the past thirty years of entering on such improvements on an extensive scale, and at so little cost to tax payers, as we have at present. The fire of 1861 laid waste a large part of the heart of the city; and while it is true that business has not increased within that period, and it cannot, therefore, be said that any extensive alterations in the topography of the city are absolutely necessary, yet we are glad to know that liberal ideas have made great progress here within the last few years, and there are now but few freeholders opposed to any reasonable scheme having in view the improvement of the city. We expect, within a few years, not only to do the business we had in 1860, but largely to increase it. And now is the time to make the necessary preparation, especially in the burnt district, where streets can be widened at a very small cost. Accordingly soon after the present Council was organized various plans were proposed, all having for their object the widening and straightening of streets, most of them within the burnt District; and as the old plan-of a Board of Commissioners, "appointed from time to time by the Legislature," whose sanction had to be first obtained for carrying out any such improvement,-was too slow and circumlocutory, laid the way open for continual complaints; in short, did not work well,-Council petitioned the Legislature for a repeal of that part of the Act of 1817; and on December 14, 1866, the Legislature passed an Act amendatory to that of 1817, which says that "hereafter it shall be left to the Mayor and Aldermen of Charleston in City Council assembled to determine what streets, lanes, alleys, or courts shall be laid out, opened, widened, or extended within the limits of the city, and to carry the said improvements into execution in the manner provided by law, without the intervention of commissioners." The Act also authorizes City Council to close any street, lane, or alley if they deem it necessary for the benefit of the

The City Council, after having determined on an improvement of this character, appoints Board of Commissioners to assess the private property needed for the purpose; and we do not think such a Board will have much difficulty in ascertaining the proper value of the lots in question, and in giving satisfaction to lot-holders, as we may take it for granted that practical business men, of character and standing, will be selected for a discharge of this delicate duty.

Council has determined to widen King street, a move which has the hearty endorsement of their efforts, and do the same for Queen street, if not from East Bay, at least from Meeting house, on the north side of the street, in those and the proprietor of it, we learn, is quite willing to have it done. All the remainder within those limits is part of the "burnt district," and will cost but little. A sufficient widening of Queen street will enhance the value of property, both along the street itself, and in its vicinity; and there is no reason why, if this scheme is carried out, Queen street should not in a few years be as pleasant and as fashionable a street for a private residence as Wentworth street is at present. True, it will be urged, our exchequer at present is not in a plethoric condition, and all needless outlays should be avoided; and though compelled to remain standing during the entire it may be true that neither the city nor the inlength of a journey, sometimes four hundred or dividual corporators have any money to spare just now, it is still the part of wisdom that the not re five hundred miles, and at the hottest season of the year. Nowhere are the natives treated othermeasure should be determined now, and the wise than as wild beasts. Tickets for distances lines run, so that no one in building along that street shall have to incur needless expense. March 8 under those paid for are constantly issued to the

We know the Committee on Streets in the City Council favors this improvement. We believe hat nearly all the property holders in the vicinity desire it, and as it will unquestionably be of benefit to the city at large, we can see no valid objection to the proposition, nor even reason for delay.

WAR IN EUROPE.

The Nation has some sensible remarks on the situation of affairs in Europe. It says: "Tremendous as are the military preparations of he Great Powers in our day, there is no question that the enormous increase which we witness in the size of armies, is in reality fresh guarantee for the peace and prosperity of the world. It is a curious but instructive fact THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE GRANITEVILLE Manufacturing Company are hereby notified that a Meeting is called, to take place at Graniteville, on Thursday, the 18th instant, at 10 o'clock A. M. Stockholders are earnestly requested to attend in person, if possible, as matters of vital importance to the Company will be presented for their consideration.

The first Thursday after the third Monday in April, which was the day of the annual meetings for several years past, was changed to the 17th July at the last annual meeting. As the Annual Report will be presented to the Stockholders on the 18th April, that day may be substituted for the regular annual meeting in July.
